

Pricing Transparency Programs

Making reproductive health testing affordable and accessible

In-network with most major health plans

Our broad in-network access can translate into lower out-of-pocket costs and fewer out-of-network service denials for patients.

Patient cost protection for eligible noncovered testing

Our cost protection program provides affordable access to advanced reproductive health tests that may not be covered by a patient's health plan. This program applies to commercial insurance programs in which ReproSource is an in-network provider and services are denied because they are investigative, experimental, or not medically necessary.

Affordable self-pay program

Our self-pay program provides an opportunity for patients to pay in advance and avoid additional costs associated with billing services.

If your patient wishes to access self-pay pricing, write "Advance Pay" on the billing portion of the requisition form and enter the patient's email address and/or mobile phone number. ReproSource will follow up directly with the patient to provide them access to our patient payment portal.

Transparency, lower costs, and greater value

Our advanced reproductive health testing, pricing transparency programs, and white-glove services can help you and your patients make the most informed decisions about reproductive health.

Affordable self-pay program

Patients who enroll in the self-pay program agree to:

- Provide an email and/or a mobile phone number to receive the link to register for the patient payment portal
- Acknowledge program enrollment (sent via email or text)
- Provide full payment within the allotted 10-day window

Patients can pay through the patient payment portal or call ReproSource billing at 1.800.667.8893 (option 3) to provide credit card information. Patients who do not acknowledge and pay in full within the 10-day window will be charged at the regular list price. Self-pay pricing cannot be offered to patients once a claim has entered the normal billing process associated with insurance submission and adjudication.
