

Insurance Coverage for Prenatal Genetic Testing

Your healthcare provider has decided to order prenatal genetic testing from Quest Diagnostics. While prenatal testing is frequently covered by insurance, you should contact your health insurance plan to obtain specific details about your individual plan benefit and coverage for this laboratory testing, as well as your out of pocket financial responsibility (such as your responsibility for co-pays and deductibles or any non-covered portion).

Your health insurance plan may ask for the name of the performing laboratory or service provider. The tests being ordered by your healthcare provider may be billed under Quest Diagnostics and our Tax ID numbers: 95-2701802 (Quest Diagnostics Nichols Institute), 46-1491586 (Quest Diagnostics Massachusetts LLC) and 54-0854787 (Quest Diagnostics Nichols Institute).

Contacting Your Health Insurance Plan

You can contact your health insurance plan by calling the member services' number located on the back of your insurance card. When calling your health insurance plan, you will likely want to ask questions concerning your level of coverage, such as the commonly asked questions provided below.

1. Are the test(s) listed below a covered benefit under my policy?
2. Are there any medical criteria that have to be met in order for the tests to be covered?
3. Are there any special requirements that have to be met prior to drawing the specimen for the testing requested; e.g., does my policy require preauthorization of services?
4. What is my out of pocket financial responsibility for the test(s), including any unmet deductibles or co-pays?

What Else You Might Need

When researching your specific benefits and coverage, your health insurance plan may need to know the name/type of test(s) being ordered, and the CPT code(s) that will be used to bill the service (see the table below).
